☞ Quality Intervention Program

The QIP is a confidential alternative to formal disciplinary proceedings. The mission of the QIP is to effectively address licensees with quality of care and communication issues that may have developed due to poor practice patterns or failure to keep up with current standards of practice. The QIP is under the umbrella of the Board's investigatory process and for this reason participation in the QIP is confidential and not subject to discovery in any civil proceeding.

If QIP intervention is successful, the licensee will benefit by improving his or her practice patterns, thus providing valuable chiropractic care to his or her patients; the patients and community will benefit by having a better practitioner available to address their needs; the Board will have protected the public without having an adverse impact on the availability of chiropractic care.

During FY 2008 three licensees were invited to participate in the QIP, all of whom accepted the invitation. Each licensee was invited due to poor documentation and recordkeeping. All three chiropractic physicians are currently working to complete the QIP.
